

WeRecycle survey

Questions Responses 26 Settings

26 responses

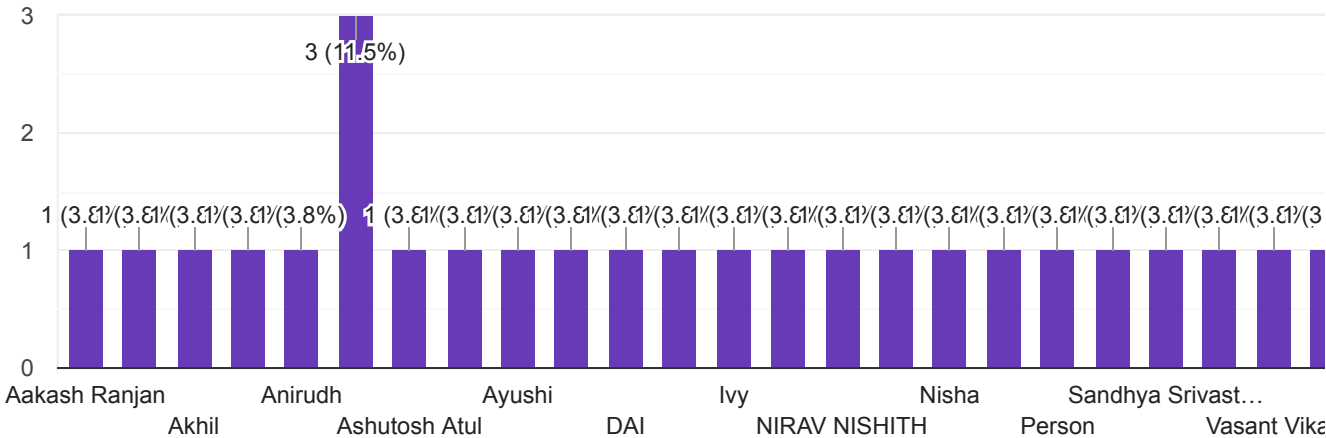

Accepting responses ☒

Summary Question Individual

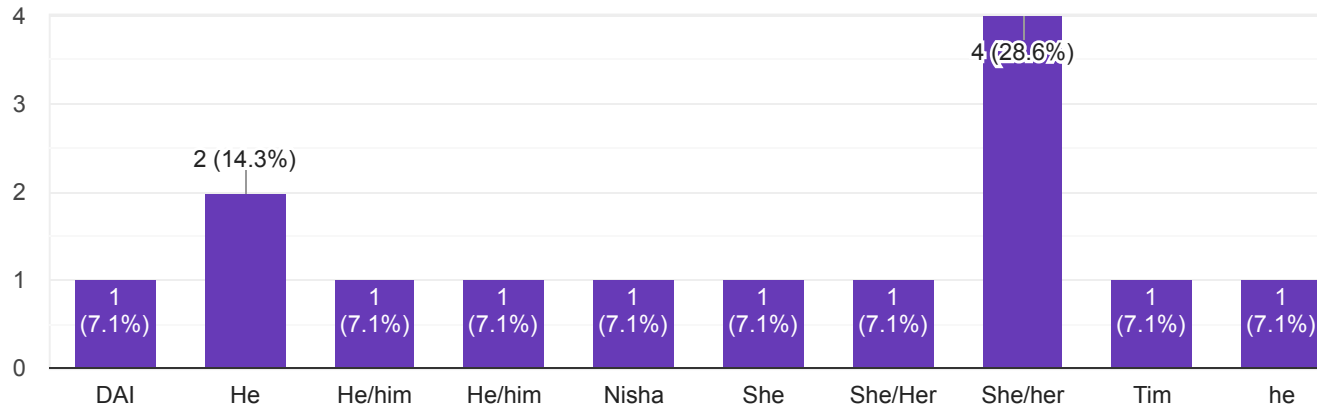

Name (Write Anonymous if you don't wish to put your name)

26 responses

What are your pronouns?

14 responses

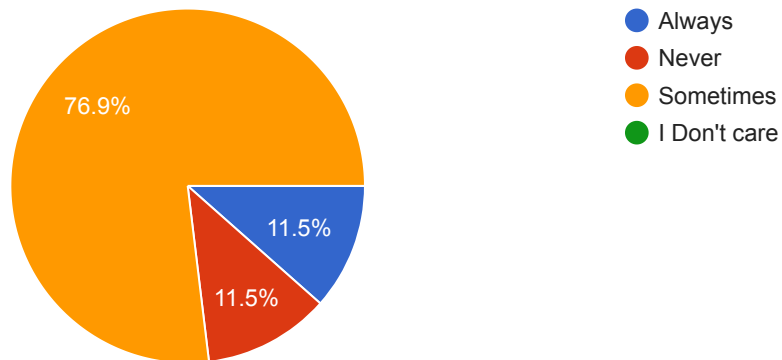

What do you consider yourself?

26 responses

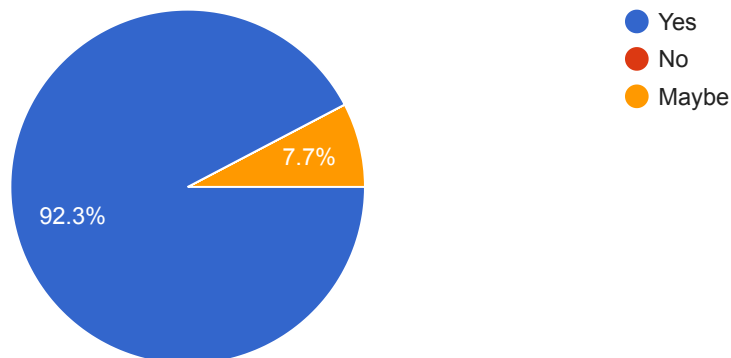

How often do you get confused while standing in front of the recycle bin?

26 responses

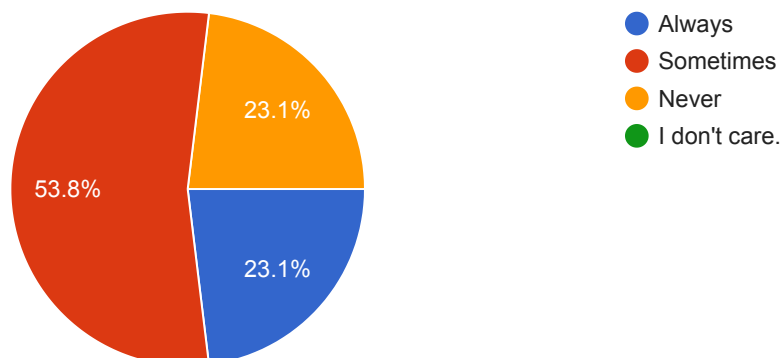

Would you change your recycling behavior if you knew better?

26 responses

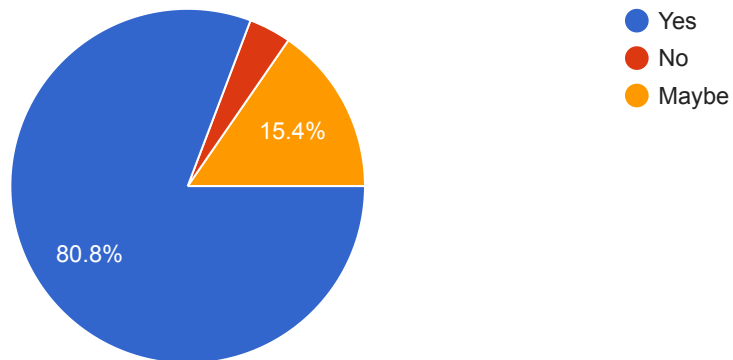

How often do u search for recycling process for a packaging/ bottles you buy?

26 responses

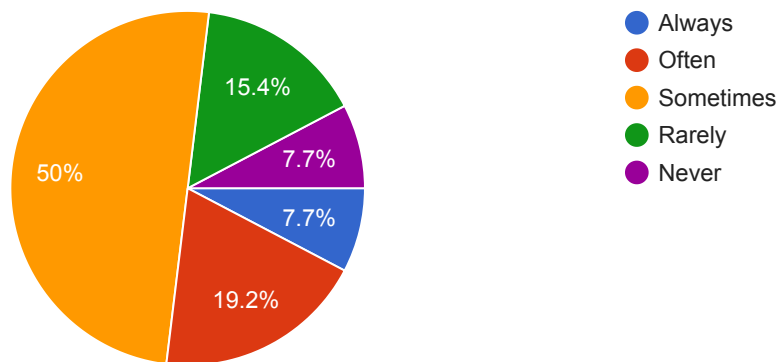

Do you wish to learn about the process of recycling things you come across in day to day lives?

26 responses

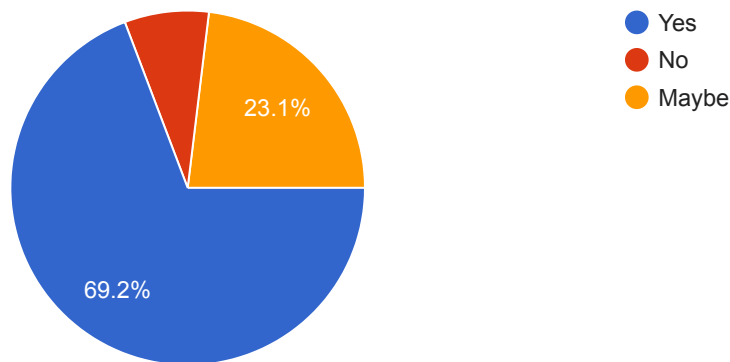

How often do you search for signs of 'recycle' on a packaging and understand it?

26 responses

If given an application in your mobile, that teaches you how to recycle, would you use it?

26 responses

Do you have any additional comments that you would like to share with us?

7 responses

No

Appreciable working to protect environment..It's also the motive of our PM Narendra Modi under a mission of swachha Bharat to reuse,recycle and renew...

I won't download a mobile app and even if I do, not sure if it provides any incentive for me to open it.

Random idea : how about adding QR code on recyclable things and use that as an incentive ?

Eg : add QR code on the item, when user scans using the app, they get a scratch card which tells them about the recycling process and awards them with credits which leads to them getting deals / coupons after scanning like 10 QR codes. (Maybe add a link it to video award extra points for watching it ?)

It would be useful if people are incentivised for recycling goods or even identifying a good to recycle. One way is if you can make finding recycling goods a game (something like pokemon go but for waste). Another thing is that people can get some reward points for recycling stuff which can be redeemed for some gifts or simply a race between friend for who found more.